

Developing OpenJFX

OpenJFX strives not just to be an open source project, but to be an "open development" project as well. This means transparency in planning, performance, bugs, fixes, decisions, code reviews, and more. Any committer on OpenJFX has equal privilege to any other committer and access to the same tools. As OpenJDK provides more infrastructure for open development for things like code review, OpenJFX will take advantage of it.